

Browse the Best Springtime Bridal and Wedding Band Trends

Sound the alarm! Today is a double holiday. For starters, it's the first day of spring. Winter is slowly fading away in exchange for sunshine, new blossoms, and liveliness. Today is also National Proposal Day. It's the unofficial holiday for honoring, celebrating, pondering, and even acting out the perfect proposal. So what better way to celebrate springtime AND proposals than by introducing our leading bridal and wedding band trends?

The latest bridal and wedding band trends lean toward larger, more attention-grabbing styles. Many of today's brides opt for chunky eternity bands featuring 2.5mm stones and above. To achieve this look while staying within budget, suggest similar anniversary band styles since they hold fewer stones, and thus, cost less. Or, suggest lab-grown diamonds or moissanite bands as an alternative to genuine diamonds.

Stack 'em to the sky! This idea seems to align with the latest bridal and wedding band trends we've witnessed over the past few years. In short, stackables are here to stay. Add interest by suggesting bands with multiple stone shapes, channel-set stones, or intricate milgrain details to make her band stand out.
